Liver transplantation is the process of surgically removing diseased liver and replacing it successfully with a healthy one. A patient needs a liver transplant when the patient's liver has deuterated and has a severe and fatal disease. The most common reason for liver transplants in India is Cirrhosis, wherein the condition severely worsens and malfunctions due to chronic injury. As Liver transplantation is a complex and major surgery, it tends to be expensive. But due to a lot of Subsidiary and government policies, Liver Transplant cost in India is much lower than in a lot of other countries.
